This 1980 Chevrolet Deluxe was purchased new in October 1980 and drove home from the lot by its current owner. He originally purchased it with the intention to start a welding service, but stayed with the company he was working for and the truck ended up parked in his shed.

The truck has stayed in the shed since, and its owner takes it out once a year just to keep things lubricated and running well. In its 29 years, it hasn't used a drop of oil.

The current owner reports that it's a great truck and is in nearly the exact same condition as it was when purchased in 1980.
